STEADY ADVANCE ON PT. ARTHUR

Stakelberg Lost Heavily at the Battle of Vafangow

Tokio, June 19th.—Fighting is reported officially to-day at Tellissu about half way between Kaiping and Pu Lien. Repeatedly the Japanese charged the Russian positions covered by a deadly fire from their artillery, but the soldiers of the Czar resisted most stubbornly and several times made counter attacks which were driven back with little difficulty. At last the Japanese force of Infantry and artillery secured a position on the left flank of the Russian position delivering a crushing enfilading fire which no troops living could have withstood. They broke and pursued by a fierce rifle and cannon fire their retreat became almost a rout. They left 600 dead or desperately wounded on the field of battle. The Japanese loss was heavy consisting of eight officers killed, 14 wounded and total casualties of nearly 900 men. They are pressing close in on the rear of the retreating Russians and a further battle is expected at any moment.

Chefoo, June 19th.—News received here to-day that General Oku has again made a serious attack on the forts about Port Arthur and has made good his position on some of the hills near the harbor. The lines about the beleaguered fortress have been drawn tighter than ever. Junks are not permitted to ply south of Dalny on the east and Kin Chow on the west.

Chefoo, June 19.—midnight—There is current here a Chinese report that the Japanese have captured one of the inner forts of Port Arthur, losing one thousand men in the engagement. It cannot however be confirmed.

London, June 18.—The correspondent of the Times at Wei Hai Wei says: "The Japanese are steadily pushing their attack on Port Arthur, and though losing heavily, are advancing foot by foot, beating daily Gen. Stoessel's troops by sheer weight of numbers. They carried Tu Cheng Tau, eight miles from Port Arthur, yesterday at the bayonet's point."

St. Petersburg, June 18.—About 1,100 men, wounded at the battle of Vafangow, including 55 officers, have reached Liao Yang. The total Russian losses are about 2,000. General Stakelberg's force is marching north, the railroad being unable to transport more than a few thousand men.

Special dispatches say the Russians at Vafangow had sixty-two battalions against forty-four Japanese battalions. The Japanese had a great superiority in artillery, having more than 200 guns.

Paris, June 18.—It is reported in St. Petersburg, according to a dispatch to the Echo de Paris, that General Stakelberg lost 1,000 men in killed, wounded and missing while he was retreating from Vafangow.

An entire division, it is said, composing his left wing, was surrounded by the Japanese and annihilated. The rest of his army got away by means of the railroad under the protection of cavalry.

London, June 18.—According to the Chronicle's correspondent at Kuroki's headquarters, fighting has been resumed in the neighborhood of Tellissu, seemingly indicating that Stakelberg is already confronted by his interceptors.

THE CHURCHES

There was a large turnout to the special children's service in McDougall church last evening. The church was very tastefully decorated with flowers. After the usual opening exercises the following was the program given.

Recitation, "In the Name of the Children," Miss Ethel Peirt.

Chorus, "In the Master's Service," School.

Part recitation, "Things We Carry," eight boys and girls.

Recitation and chorus, "The Master's Garden," Several girls.

Recitation, "A Sermon on the Flowers," Josie Milner.

Chorus, "Forward in the Sunshine," School.

Sermon, Pastor.

Antiphon, "Consider the Lilies," the choir.

The report of the Sabbath school was read, showing the average attendance for the first three months of 1904 to be 154, for the past three months 140 and for the past six months, 136.

The Presbyterian church was packed to the doors last evening at the special service for men, and many were turned away, unable to gain admission. Special music was provided by a male choir of 30 voices. Mr. Percy Hook presiding at the organ. The anthem was "Praise Ye the Lord," which was exceptionally well rendered.

Rev. T. A. Rodgers was the preacher of the evening. He chose as his text "And they all with one accord began to make excuse" and pointed out some of the excuses made in modern days for neglecting Christianity.

Letters FROM A Son TO HIS Self-Made Father

By Charles Eustace Merriman

Harry Thurston Peck wrote in the New York American, Feb. 6:

"Fully as amusing as the book that suggested it."

"Readers of old Gorgon Graham's letters to his son will read with pure delight these neat replies, in which young Pierrepont Graham matches his father's commercial philosophy with a merry philosophy of his own, meets maxims with maxims and anecdote with counter anecdote, and generally succeeds in scoring off the old man most effectively. Mr. Merriman has shown himself to be quite a match for Mr. Lorimer, and the book which he has written is a worthy pendant to the one which called it forth."

"Indeed, unless the readers of the first book read the second also, they will have missed something which they will be very unlucky to have lost."

The Story of a Crime

The Regina Court house was packed to the doors Tuesday morning when Mr. Justice Newlands took the bench and the case of the King vs. Wilcox was called. There was a large display of legal talent on both sides. Mr. Johnstone and Mr. Howell were prosecuting and Mr. McKenzie was defending Wilcox. Legal men from all over the Territories were in attendance and almost every lawyer and student of the city was in attendance.

Mr. J. A. Bangs was called and questioned by Mr. Howell. He was a solicitor in the city of Calgary, had been there for the past twelve years. He had known the prisoner for about two years. Prisoner was a mail clerk on the train Bangs understood, between Moose Jaw and Calgary, but he had no actual knowledge of this. He remembered hearing of the robbery of the mail and had had some conversation with the prisoner on this subject some time during January or February, but could not say exactly which it was.

Mr. Howell showed Bangs a letter dated Jan. 19, 1904, and reply to same. These letters Bangs recognized, one being a letter written by him to Harris & Bull, Vancouver, and the other the reply of Harris & Bull. At the time the letter was written Bangs was solicitor for Wilcox.

Mr. Mackenzie objected to the private dealings between solicitor and client being taken as evidence.

Mr. Howell said this question had been decided long ago and was quite proper.

Mr. Mackenzie quoted from the law authorities to prove his claim. He argued that the evidence of a solicitor should not be allowed to go against Wilcox until a case of crime was proven. No incriminating evidence had as yet been submitted. There was no connection between this letter and the accused. It was reasonable to suppose that Wilcox had gone to Bangs as a solicitor, for help, and Bangs, who now had a charge against himself was taking advantage of the information given him by Wilcox to get clear himself. He was making out a conspiracy where none existed. For these reasons Mr. Mackenzie objected before questions were asked.

Mr. Howell read the letters. The first stated that a marked cheque for $1,000 was enclosed, and asked to have it changed into Bank of Hamilton currency. The second was a reply stating that the money had been sent and stating charges.

Bangs said his conversation with Wilcox had been before this letter was written which would be before Jan. 19, 1904. He had received something from Wilcox previous to this. It was a parcel of money. He had been given a key and had gone to Wilcox's locker on the Calgary Golf grounds where he had found a small telescope valve which contained a number of rubber stamps, some sealing wax, a number of seals and several parcels of money. It also contained a letter stamp with the letter R on it. The letter was enclosed by a small circle. The seals had impressions on them, but they were different, and he did not remember what they were. The seals were round, and about 11-14 inches across. Attached to the bottom of the seals were some pieces of rag or paper. There were about half a dozen of them, all made of red sealing wax. The money in the valve was about $7,000 in Bank of Hamilton bills, some fives and some tens. The valve was about two feet long and the bills and papers just fitted into it. All the packages of money and there were about eight or ten of them, had rubber bands around them. The witness here asked his Lordship if the evidence which he was giving now would be used against him at his trial, and was told that it would not.

Bangs never looked at the money till he took it home, when he opened it and looked at it. Part of the money was given to Messrs. Heald and Chamberlain, in Bangs' house at Calgary. It was tied up in a parcel which was produced and identified by Bangs. He had not counted the money, but had stood by and seen Heald do so. There was $5,000 in the parcel. This was, Bangs said, the identical money which he had received out of the locker at the Gold Mine. It was done up in packages enclosed in rubber bands as was the exhibit. Some of the money he had given to Boyce at two different times. The first time he had given Boyce $1,000 and the second time $400. The first money had been on account of a mortgage on property at High River taken in Bangs' name, and the second time it had been given for the purpose of having it exchanged into bills. He declined to give the name of the client for whom the mortgage was taken unless he was ordered to do so. Mr. Mackenzie objected to the name of the client being given, but His Lordship ruled otherwise.

Mr. Bangs—The mortgage was taken by John Harvey Wilcox. Boyce was to get the other money exchanged and return it to Bangs. This deal was also made in the interest of and at the request of Wilcox. Wilcox had applied to Bangs for money and the latter not having any except the Bank of Hamilton bills, was forced to get it exchanged. He did not remember the exact date of giving the money to Boyce, but knew it was the day before the office was searched. The $400 was handed over some three weeks after the searching of his office. He had spent some of the money for himself and had given the prisoner some of it, about $200. This was not in Bank of Hamilton currency. It was the money he had converted himself. He would not swear that all the money disposed of was taken out of the box, for Wilcox had given him some more money two or three days after he had taken the box home. This was in Bank of Hamilton bills too. Wilcox asked him to get all the money exchanged and applied to Bangs for money from time to time. He had got about $1,000 altogether. All the Bank of Hamilton bills which he received were fives and tens. Although he was not certain as to the date he had taken the money from the golf links some time after the new year. Altogether he had received $10,000 in Bank of Hamilton bills. Wilcox had told him (Bangs) where the money came from and Bangs told Boyce where to had received the money. Wilcox said he had the money in the pillow of his bed. He said it was part of the package of money that was taken from the mail. He told Bangs this the first time he came to his office. Wilcox told him he took the money and was going to be arrested for it. When he got the money he had intended to keep it, and give it to Wilcox in small portions from time to time as he required it and as he (Bangs) could get it exchanged.

Mr. Howell—"Why did he want to get it exchanged?"

Mr. Bangs—Because it was part of the stolen money and he did not want to throw suspicion on himself. Witness had made no arrangement with Wilcox as to what he was to receive for his services in getting the money exchanged and taking the mortgage, which was done according to instructions. The mortgage was taken in his own name. He had given Wilcox money three or four times after getting the money from him. No entry had been made in

Hudson's Bay Route

The Hudson Bay Route came in for considerable discussion at the Boards of Trade convention in Calgary. Concerning it the Herald says:

Mr. Justice McGuire's analysis of the resolutions committing the convention to ascertaining the navigability of Hudson's Bay, was one of the interesting features of the evening session. His information was specific. By figures he indicated the economic value of the proposed highway to Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat and adjacent sections. It was even possible, in his estimation, that the western states would patronize this route for cattle and grain. It would at least prove a counter commercial attraction against the Panama canal. He thought the Hudson's Bay company and the C.P.R. were perhaps for obvious reasons hostile to this proposition. It was scarcely possible that the great inland sea was unnavigable, as the Hudson's Bay company claimed, as an economical proposition. Man's ingenuity could solve all questions. But he regarded the question for governments to deal with.

He advocated the immediate solution of the problem, "Is the bay navigable?" When this definite information was obtained then the further question of economical use of this great waterway could be determined.

The resolution provided: "That the convention is of the opinion that if the navigability of Hudson's bay is commercially practicable it would afford a shorter and more advantageous outlet to Europe of Western products, and an inlet for imports from Europe. It is therefore the opinion of the convention that the Dominion Government and the legislative assembly should be requested to make all necessary inquiries to settle definitely the commercial navigability of the bay."

Judge McGuire said it was owing to a misunderstanding that a resolution endorsing a transportation route via the Hudson's bay was attributed to him. He was not convinced that such a route should be developed. There should, however, be no objection to a discussion of the subject and with that in view he had hastily collected the following:

The best port in Hudson's bay is no doubt Port Churchill, and if ever a shipping point is developed on that body of water which will be of benefit to the Territories and Manitoba it will be at that point.

For at least very many years the most easterly point of the Saskatchewan river that will be crossed by a railway leading to the Hudson's Bay will be at The Pas. Mackenzie & Mann have a line located at that point, which is only some 70 or 80 miles from the already constructed portion of the Prince Albert branch of the Canadian Northern. That route will take all the traffic to the Hudson's bay as far east as Winnipeg. A line could be built from Winnipeg to Port Churchill, and going via Lake Winnipeg which would cost of Lake Winnipeg shorter but it is not either in cost of construction, operating or for traffic purposes anything like as favorably situated as the one via The Pas.

It is therefore assumed that the line from Port Churchill, at or near the north-west corner of Manitoba, via The Pas to Port Churchill will be common for all points in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. The air line distance from Port Churchill to Winnipeg is 1160 miles. After crossing the Saskatchewan river there would be no streams of any magnitude to be bridged nor heights to be surmounted. Considerable curvature will be required to avoid ridges, lakes, muskegs, etc., which will necessitate an increase of probably 30 per cent. in mileage over the air line distance, or in all 870 miles. If the railway be constructed slowly and from one end so that the end of the steel is not more than say 100 miles from the advance point of construction, it could be built cheaply. Outside of some swampy land there is no probability of a traffic along same being developed unless mineral which can be mined profitably be discovered. There will not, probably, be found either coals or lignites along or near this route.

To Roscoe from the following points in the Territories and Manitoba for the air line distance it will be necessary to add 15 per cent. for the length of a constructed railway between the leading points:

Roscoe	Air line	Plus 15	Distance
to	Distance.	P. C.	to Ft. Churchill
Winnipeg	230	222	922
Brandon	220	253	923
Regina	295	236	906
Med. Hat	450	495	1165
Lethbridge	500	610	1250
Calgary	540	621	1231
Red Deer	510	537	1257
Edmonton	390	554	1254
Battleford	280	322	922
Saskatoon	215	247	817
Pr. Albert	170	196	866

Prince Albert being the shortest and representing its distance from Port Churchill by the route mentioned as 100, the others would be as follows: Regina 105, Brandon and Saskatoon 106 each, Winnipeg and Battleford each 114, Medicine Hat 134, Edmonton 141, Red Deer 145, Lethbridge 148 and Calgary 149.

The shortest possible route from tidewater to tidewater across the continent north of Mexico is probably from Port Simpson to Port Churchill via Peace river or Pine river passes. When the Grand Trunk Pacific is built by either of these passes the air line distance to say Dunvegan, or some point similarly situated to the east and just clear of the mountains is 470 miles. It will be necessary to add to that distance for a line built through the mountains say 50 per cent. in all 705 miles. Dunvegan to Port Churchill is 915 miles air, add 50 per cent., or 274. In all 1159, or from Port Simpson to Port Churchill by route mentioned 1394 miles.

Of the distance between Dunvegan to Churchill the western 300 miles, or till the Athabasca is crossed below Fort McMurray, would be to a greater or lesser extent traffic producing. The balance about the same as from the Pas to Churchill; no very large bridges other than the crossing of the Athabasca would probably be necessary. The line if not rushed could be built cheaply and for grades would probably be "A." If a connection were made to this line from points in Alberta with a view of an short a route as possible to Port Churchill by it the connection would be about when it crossed the Athabasca, in which case the distance from Edmonton to Port Churchill would be 1170, Calgary 1270 as against via The Pas 1234 and 1291 respectively. From Battleford by air-line north to this line the distance would be 920 as against 992 via the Pas. From all other points mentioned excepting Edmonton, and Battleford, the Pas route is much the shorter and for the two mentioned only 70 miles longer.

From a point on the Grand Trunk Pacific about north of Nepona Lake to Port Churchill the air line distance is 600 miles, add 30 per cent., making 780 miles. This would pass through for a long distance what is reported to be a fine pulp wood territory and also having considerable agricultural possibilities. The distance from that point to Dunvegan as per route mentioned equals 780, plus 1198, in all 1269, or to Port Simpson 705 more, making in all 2074 miles.

From the same point north of Lake Nepona to Winnipeg the air line distance is 430 miles, add 30 per cent., makes 494 miles. Winnipeg to Edmonton, via Grand Trunk railway route by air line would be 740, add 15 per cent., equals 851 miles. Edmonton to Dunvegan, via air line equals 269 miles, plus 30 per cent., makes 350 miles. The difference in routes starting from the point on the Grand Trunk Pacific north of Nepona and going to Dunvegan via Winnipeg and Edmonton equals 1633 miles, and going via Port Churchill 1969 miles, the saving from said point to Port Simpson via the southerly route being 11 per cent. The northerly route for grades would probably be the best.

This data was tendered thinking it may be of interest if not of practical value to some member of the convention.

Mayor Short, of Edmonton, observed that the question of the navigability of the Saskatchewan river would be the subject of a resolution later. This at least would afford a great commercial highway through a vast territory.

Mr. MacKenzie of Edmonton thought the motion scarcely forceful enough. It should be very strong. He would ask that the resolution be made more emphatic.

The author accepted the idea. He had been moderate because he desired the motion to carry sure.

J. H. Ashdown of Winnipeg desired to say that the idea that Winnipeg would be hostile to this significant project was a mistake. There was no fear that the distributing center of the west being moved further west would cause Winnipeg to obstruct this enterprise. In the speaker's estimation. The improvement of the Saskatchewan route, Winnipeg would favor. The possibilities of the route were appreciated further east, he thought. He warmly urged that the resolution be made as strong as words could make it.

Wm. Gorgeson, of Winnipeg, favored a direct resolution endorsing a direct transportation route to the Hudson's Bay. He offered as an amendment the original resolution—the positive declaration pledging the convention to a Hudson's Bay railway. A. Allan, of Calgary, observed that it was the absence of routes to tidewater that held back the development of Canada. The state progressed because the people sought many routes to the sea for the movement of grain and manufactured articles. He was convinced that Hudson's Bay was navigable four or five months in the year. He believed the railroad would come when it was needed. He thought the delegates should exhibit more confidence in the possibilities of the country. In any event, the speaker thought that resolutions adopted should be well thought out, as expressing the convictions of the convention.

There was a considerable division of opinion as to the advisability of asking Manitoba to co-operate with the Territories in the investigation rather than the Dominion government. Two previous expeditions conducted by the federal government had come to naught, a delegate observed.

Mr. Justice McGuire accepted the ideas expressed in the amendments and independent suggestions and revised his amendment.

J. H. Ashdown was not yet satisfied. He submitted this amendment: "This convention is of the opinion that Hudson's Bay and Straits are commercially navigable. And that the Hudson's Bay route is the shortest and most advantageous route to and from Europe."

This was adopted without a dissenting voice.

SCENES AT THE TRIAL

IN THE MAIL ROBBERY CASE

Regina's Court House Crowded by a Curious Throng at the Conclusion of the Trial

Special Correspondence to the Bulletin.

Regina, June 16th.—Today was Regina's civic holiday, the anniversary of its birth as a city, and being the first day of the now famous Wilcox trial all those citizens who did not take in the excursion to Indian Head sought excitement at the court house. The court room was crowded, for the word had been passed around last night that all the evidence was in for the prosecution and the defence were calling no witnesses and that today's proceedings would be taken up with the addresses of counsel and the judge's charge to the jury. The closing scenes of the big trial promised interest not only to those who went to watch the war of wits between opposing counsel, but to those as well, who, prompted by that morbid instinct, which is so natural to us all, went to see a fellow creature suffering for his sins. If lights of impassioned oratory, heated arguments of counsel, or sensational developments were what the curious went to hear, they were disappointed. There were no sky-rockets fired, and beyond those few pregnant moments when in deathly silence, broken only by his well modulated voice, Norman MacKenzie, the clever advocate who defended the accused, told the jury of the long months that the young prisoner had spent in jail waiting his trial, and how, brokenhearted at the trouble which had come upon him, his mother had died while her son was locked within his cell; and later on when the jury filed in and the foreman pronounced the fateful words, "Guilty, My Lord," and the prisoner bowed his head and for a moment in conjunction with T. C. Howell, K. C., of Regina, conducted the prosecution, spoke for an hour and a half. Carefully he reviewed the evidence step by step, link by link he went over the chain which the prosecution had woven until it seemed, when he concluded, that there could be no other side to the story. Logically and with judicial impartiality he reviewed the evidence and followed the fateful letter with its $10,000 all the just a moment—broken down and the gears welled from him, his eyes there were no sensational features to ponder to the morbidly curious.

The usual order of addressing the jury was reversed, for as the defence produced no evidence, they were entitled to the last address to the six men who were sworn to "well and truly try the prisoner at the bar." H. M. Howell, K.C., of Winnipeg, who, way from Winnipeg to Vancouver. The man who took the $10,000 up in the Bank of Hamilton, Winnipeg, had been examined, and after him the clerk who carried the package from the teller's box to the post office, then had come the post office clerk who received it, the clerk who carried it to the forwarding clerk, and the forwarding clerk at the hands of the mail to Mail Clerk Gleeson; then Gleeson and every other mail clerk on the main line between Winnipeg and the coast, with the solitary exception of the accused, who, in company with Clerk Kinney, carried the package or letter from Moose Jaw to Calgary. All these men had sworn that they had handed the parcel on without interfering with its contents. Every man who could have stolen it had been examined and had sworn that he did not take it. Then there was the evidence of Bangs. The story of Bangs was the bombshell that the defence threw to pieces and incidentally ruined himself. He told how he had gone to the golf club-house at Calgary on the direction of Wilcox to get an important package. How he had gained admission to the golf house and to a locker in it by means of two keys supplied to him by the accused. How he had found the parcel for which he sought. It was a telescope grip, he said, about two feet long and with an inside case of tin just the size of the grip. He opened it and found within some papers, sealing wax, rubber and metal stamps, wax seals, cord, and back of all, on the bottom, divided into about ten packages, bills of the Bank of Hamilton aggregating some seven thousand dollars. He took the grip home and burnt it and the contents except the $7,000. He kept that, subsequently he had gotten at different times from Wilcox amounts aggregating another $1,000. Some of this he had loaned out on a mortgage with himself as mortgagee but really taken for the benefit of Wilcox, he said. He told how Wilcox came to him and said he was suspected of the theft and asked him to defend him; how Wilcox had told him that he had taken the money from the mail car; and how he had told his story to him and asked for his help. Mr. Howell's address contained no attempts at oratory, but he did not leave anything unsaid that could be said.

Mr. MacKenzie also spoke for an hour and a half and his address, like that of counsel for the prosecution, was purely argumentative. The prosecution, he contended, had not established their case. Skillfully he commenced to poke holes in the chain that counsel for the prosecution had woven. Here and there he pointed out how the letter could have been stolen far more easily than it

BY-LAW NO. 270

A By-law to Provide for Raising the Sum of $8,000 to be Expended in the Purchase of Land for Purpose Mentioned in the Municipal Ordinance, Section 56, Subsection 50, (Nuisance Ground) and Subsection 70 (Gravel Pit).

WHEREAS it is deemed expedient by the Municipal Council of the Town of Edmonton that the Municipality should acquire lands for the purposes mentioned in subsections 50 and 70 of Section 56 of the Municipal Ordinance (C. O. 1898 c. 70) namely: for the purpose of acquiring lands for obtaining gravel for municipal uses and for a nuisance ground for the purpose of disposing of the sewage and other refuse of the municipality.

And whereas it is expedient to enable the municipal council to raise, by the issue of Debentures, a sum not exceeding $8,000 to be expended for the purposes aforesaid.

And whereas it is expedient that the amount to be borrowed for the purposes aforesaid, if such authority be accorded, should be payable during the period of fifteen years from the date of the debentures to be issued therefor, and should bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum and either (1) that the same should be repayable in such manner that each instalment of principal and interest shall be equal in each year of the said period of fifteen years; (2) that the principal shall be repayable at the end of fifteen years from the said date (pro no such being made for the repayment thereof by the creation of an equal annual sinking fund) and the interest annually.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property in the municipality, according to the last revised assessment roll, is $3,200,100.00. And whereas the total amount of the general debt of the municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts secured by special assessments, and outside of the debt due for the current expenses of the year, is $308,237.39, whereof no part is in arrears.

And whereas it is expedient that this By-law should take effect on the 15th day of July next.

Now therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Edmonton, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. The Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Edmonton are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for the purposes aforesaid, on behalf of the municipality a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of $8,000 and to issue one or more debentures of the municipality for such sum or sums so borrowed.

2. The said debentures shall be paid during a period of fifteen years from the date of the issue of such debenture or debentures, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum, and shall, as the Council shall deem expedient, be repayable either, (1) in such manner that each instalment of principal and interest shall be equal in each year of the said period of fifteen years; or (2) in such manner that the principal shall be paid at the end of the said period of fifteen years (an equal annual sum by way of sinking fund being raised annually during the said period sufficient to meet the principal at maturity) and the interest thereon yearly.

3. During the currency of the said debentures there shall be raised annually by special general rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal taxes, and a sufficient sum to meet the amount of the annual instalment of principal and interest, or the amount of the equal annual sinking fund and the annual interest, as the case may be, payable in each year in respect of the said debentures.

4. This By-law shall take effect on the 15th day of July, 1934.

5. The votes of the electors for and against this By-law shall be taken at the Council Chamber in the Fire Hall in the Town of Edmonton on Monday, the 4th day of July, 1934, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

6. George Johnston, Kinnaid is hereby appointed Returning Officer and Kenneth Collins, Deputy Returning Officer to take the votes at the time and place aforesaid.

7. The said Council Chamber at the hour of 5 p.m. of the said 4th day of July, 1934, is hereby fixed as the place and time where and when the Returning Officer shall sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-law.

Passed provisionally in Council at Edmonton this 8th day of June A.D. 1934.

HAD MADE PREPARATIONS

The inquest on the body of Charles Knight, who shot himself in the water closet of the school at Oids on Tuesday last, was held at the city hall, Calgary, on Thursday night. Alex. McBride, E. Kling, E. Doughty, J. A. Palmer, E. McCormick and C. F. Comer acted on the jury. The verdict returned was that "he came to his death from the effects of a bullet wound inflicted by himself, while in a fit of despondency." W. J. Brumpton, who was near the schoolhouse when the fatality occurred, saw Knight come reeling out of the water closet. Knight said: "I have shot myself and am afraid I made a poor job of it." He asked Brumpton to get the revolver that he might shoot himself again. After the arrival of Dr. Williams Knight was taken to the hotel. Dr. J. R. Williams gave evidence as to the condition of the patient and Dr. Ings, who performed the autopsy on the body, gave evidence showing that the wound was sufficient to cause death. The act was evidently premeditated and carefully planned, for a letter was found among his papers, saying good-bye to his mother, Mrs. C. W. Knight, of Turnersville, Ontario. He had made arrangements for the forwarding of his trunk to his mother, leaving his books also to her, with $500, which is deposited in the Bank of Commerce at Oids. His baggage check even was enclosed with the letter.

could have been by Wilcox; laxity in the post office management at Winnipeg was dwelt upon and in fact every point that could have been argued on behalf of his client was argued. His address throughout was a most creditable one and all the more commendable from the fact that he did not take advantage of the all too ready situation to indulge in any wild rhetoric or cheap sensationalism.

It took the jury about twenty minutes to bring in a verdict of guilty. The prisoner was not then sentenced but was removed from the room and the case against Bangs for receiving stolen money, was taken up.

Bangs, looking strangely white-haired and wan and having all the appearance of a broken-hearted man, entered the prisoner's dock and pleaded guilty. His counsel, Mr. Walsh, K.C. of Calgary, asked for the clemency of the court. His client, he said, had been drawn into this unfortunate affair. He was a broken-hearted man and was prepared to leave the country, as he realized his career here was ended for ever. He had a wife and four small children, depending upon him. If he was sent to jail God only knew what would become of them. His Lordship, Mr. Justice Newlands, expressed his regret at having to pass sentence upon him, but no other course was open. The verdict of the court was 18 months in Regina jail with hard labor. The prisoner, looking, if anything more wan and pitiful than ever, stepped from the dock and, with his guards, walked from the room.

Some knowledge of his impending fate must have been imparted to Benjamin Franklin Boyce, for he stepped into the box stall of the wicked with a half concealed smile of satisfaction lurking in the corners of his mouth. The clerk read the charge, "Receiving stolen goods." "Guilty," said "Jerry." Then counsel for the prosecution arose and asked for clemency. Without the evidence of Boyce, he said, Bangs could not have been implicated and without the evidence of Bangs Wilcox could not have been convicted. They were, therefore, indebted to the prisoner Boyce for much assistance in bringing the original culprit to justice and he would ask that the accused be let off on suspended sentence. The Judge nodded his acquiescence, and the redoubtable Jerry stepped from the ignoble cage still wearing "the smile that won't come off."

Mr. Mackenzie has asked for a reserved case on a point of law. The question is as to the admissibility of the evidence of Bangs. Mr. Mackenzie claims that any communications from Wilcox to Bangs were privileged as being communications from a client to solicitor. The Judge contended that the privilege did not extend to matters of crime. "But," Mr. Mackenzie answered, "no crime has been shown to have been committed by the accused. You must first establish your crime and you cannot do that without the evidence of Bangs." His Honor has not yet decided whether he will grant a reserved case or not, though he definitely expressed himself as being against the contention of Mr. Mackenzie and over-ruled all objections on this ground at the trial.

In the meantime the prisoners Wilcox and Bangs have started their terms of imprisonment. Bangs was at once taken to the jail here, and Wilcox left for Stony Mountain on tonight's train.

the books of his firm of these dealings and the only records of them were in a memorandum of his own. The transaction with Harris & Dill was the only one of which the firm kept any account. The $2000 mortgage was never entered in any books.

About the time of the alleged robbery he had endorsed a note for Wilcox and had it discounted at the Union Bank at Calgary. Part of this note was unpaid, though Wilcox had reduced the amount owing at the bank. In addition to this Wilcox owed Bangs $37 which had not yet been paid.

In answer to a question by Mr. Howell, witness said that he had been told by Wilcox that he (Wilcox) had taken the parcel out of the mail bag and had substituted a letter for it.

Mr. Mackenzie objected to this question, but His Lordship again overruled his objection.

In addition to this witness said he had been told by the accused that the letter was addressed to the Bank of Hamilton at Vancouver, and that he had taken it on the train at Vancouver. Witness told Wilcox he would do what he could to get the money changed and had done so as above stated.

Again Mr. Mackenzie objected and wanted a definite ruling, and again the learned judge ruled against him, and the case proceeded.

Mr. Howell produced a mail bag and showed witness the seal on it. Mr. Bangs said the seal on the one which he had found in the value with the money. He could not say that the impression was exactly the same as was on the seals which he found as he had not examined them closely. He saw Wilcox the day after getting the money, but had never shown it to him. Wilcox had told Bangs that the other mail man was asleep when he took the parcel out of the bag.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mackenzie, he said he was now in the city awaiting trial on the charge of receiving stolen money. No one but he had seen the seals on the wax. He had burnt the box and all the other things except the money, as Wilcox had told him to destroy all incriminating evidence. He had hidden the box containing the money in the lane at the back of his house. Wilcox had not given any definite instructions about the money and he was simply acting on a general authority.

Mr. Mackenzie asked him if he, as a rule made deals for other people in his own name.

Mr. Bangs—Yes, often. He said that his memory was very little fresher than it was at the time of the preliminary hearing. He had only answered questions as they were asked at that time and if he had omitted anything it was because they had failed to ask him about it. He had reviewed the evidence given at the preliminary hearing that very morning, and it was all fresh in his memory. At the time of the preliminary hearing he had not been aware of the fact that he was going to give evidence until he had been placed on the stand.

The Chamberlain Policy

The Chamberlain fiscal tariff was the subject of a somewhat lively discussion at the Board of Trade convention in Calgary on Wednesday. The Albertan says:—

The afternoon session drifted into an interesting discussion at the very beginning. The committee on resolutions presented its report and loomed large in it was the celebrated Chamberlain resolution, inspired in this instance by the Calgary Board of Trade, and bearing the name of R. E. Bennett.

To this Dr. Lafferty made objection. He opposed it because it might lead to political controversy, which at this time, at the first convention, would be a disastrous result. He objected to the discussion of the question because it would be going a great way in expressing an opinion upon something which we know nothing about. He doubted if Joseph Chamberlain understood his own policy. He moved an amendment that the clause be removed from the report.

Dr. DeVeber, of Lethbridge Board of Trade, seconded the motion, and because there was nothing to discuss. All Canada endorsed the first part of the resolution, which seemed to favor better commercial relations between the Mother Country and the Colonies. He doubted if any person had second sight so fully developed as to understand what an endorsement of Joseph Chamberlain really meant.

R. E. Bennett said that he had prepared the resolution at the instigation of the Calgary Board of Trade. He was not aware that Dr. Lafferty and his stamp and style were opposed to the resolution. Gentlemen of the same color, politically, had requested him to introduce the resolution. He doubted if there was a Liberal so poor a Canadian not to desire the passing of the resolution. He did not believe it was a political issue. He said it was a gratuitous insult to this convention to say that they are not intelligent enough to discuss a resolution which has been discussed by Boards of Trade all over Canada. He had taken much trouble in preparing this question, but he had no feeling in the matter.

Mr. Simmonds, of Cardston, favored the amendment because he believed this meeting to be one of business men to discuss questions directly before them. They were not called upon to discuss sentiment or national unity. They would have enough to do to further matters of immediate concern to the Territories.

All were in favor of preferential trade, but it was not for us, but the British taxpayer, to work the question out.

Mr. Hailford, of Regina, favored the endorsement of the amendment.

Mr. Fowler, of Wetaskiwin, believed the Chamberlain policy involved questions quite as interesting to the colonial taxpayer as the British taxpayer.

Mr. Blacklock said that it was the greatest trade question which could come before them.

Dr. Lafferty in reply to Mr. Bennett, denied that he had reflected upon the intelligence of the convention when he desired the clause struck out, pointing out that in the Old Country the politicians were ignorant of the meaning of the Chamberlain idea. He further stated that he had expressed no opinion upon the resolution, but rather upon the wisdom of discussing it here.

The amendment was lost by 22 votes to 27.

The Difference

Raymond Chronicle: With whoever feeling the government railroad policy is received, it will at least be taken seriously, while Mr. Borden's government ownership scheme, treading on the heels of the alternative proposition and the heterogeneous suggestions of his lieutenants, cannot be regarded as much else than simply a program with which to live over the elections so soon approaching.

Alberta Fall Wheat

The Raymond Chronicle publishes the following interesting article on the fall wheat culture in Southern Alberta:

A million bushels of wheat is what this district will have to show in 1905. For a tract of country pronounced fit only for hay land, for such was the destined opinion of the ranchers in the district less than ten years ago, this estimate may sound altogether too sanguine, but it is one made by most conservative minds by men who are backing their opinion on the productiveness of the soil by the expenditure of thousands in labor, machinery and seed wheat. At the present time between Spring Coulee and Chin Coulee there are hundreds of teams breaking the virgin soil for five big companies, two steam-plowing out fits are at work and hundreds of new settlers are turning the prairie sod lands into wheat and barley bought lands. Principal among these is Thomson, of Spring Coulee, the pioneer fall wheat grower of the district, the man who has produced Turkey Red wheat here and who is in a way to reap a fortune by his enterprise. His land, to the extent of 12,000 acres will be sown this fall and hundreds of newly arrived settlers are securing steady work from him in preparing the land for the seed. In the same neighborhood three thousand acres are owned by Gilliff and Griewell, of Gainsburg, Illinois, and at least one-third of their holdings will grow Turkey Red next year. Geo. W. Heathshaw of Magrath, who is acting as their local agent has let contracts for the breaking of 500 acres to Magrath farmers, and further contracts will be given out before fall. These people have not only invested a large amount already, but are in the market for more land.

Adjoining the Magrath township lie the immense holdings of the Alberta Land and Stock Company, composed of capitalists from Utah, and on these a steam plow is at work, the expectation being to have a thousand acres ready for Turkey Red this fall. North of Stirling a new company with ready money is negotiating for the purchase of half a township, and should the sale go through at least a thousand acres will be broken this season. In this, also, the favorite Turkey Red will be sown. A short distance north-west another big company, the North-West Irrigation Company, are now breaking another thousand acres for fall wheat, while hundreds of other land owners, large and small, will swell the total acreage of this district up to twenty-five thousand acres at the very least. On new soil, judging from the past two years' crop of fall wheat, the average yield will be forty bushels, so that the product of this once despised section will be a considerable part of the total wheat yield of the Northwest.

At the present time the preparations being made by the big farming syndicates are having a most beneficial effect on the district, inasmuch as employment is being given most opportunely to many settlers who are not in a position to wait for cash until harvest time. They are thus enabled to raise money for their heavy initial expenses in this new country and they have gladly availed themselves of the opportunity offered to work for wages during the season between the sowing and harvesting periods.

Wetaskiwin News

Miss Eadie and A. S. Knight went to Edmonton on Tuesday to attend the farewell assembly given in honor of the Misses Belair.

Walter Beairto came down from Edmonton on Saturday morning last, and is now assisting in the Imperial Bank here.

The land office was moved this week from the post office building to the rooms upstairs in N. Schmidt's brick block. P. A. Miquon, who has been the agent here, was compelled to resign on account of the multiplicity of duties thrust upon him, and D. A. Ward has been appointed in his stead.

The outfit comprised twenty-five teams of splendid work horses and a complement of the latest style of implements. There were fifty-two men in the party under the charge of Mr. Jean, and this force will be largely augmented at the scene of their work, which is east of Battleford. Mr. La Belle, a well known and experienced railway builder, will act as foreman for the firm during the summer.

—Red Deer Advocate: The new No. 7 gasoline fire engine arrived last Friday, and with it the 1000 feet of hose and two hose reels and other fixtures. ## Musical Instruments

Have a peculiar charm for us. When we hear the sweetest strains of the mandolin and violin our hearts are thrilled with their joyful message and sorrow for the time forgotten. "Music hath charms" certainly is as true as the gospel. Without instruments of some sort your home is lacking one pleasant feature. Why not purchase a mandolin now? We have a number of these instruments to offer at prices within your means. Call at our store and look over our musical instruments.
